In 2016, Americans fed up with the political process vented that frustration with their votes.

Republicans nominated for president a wealthy

Businessman and former reality show host best known on the campaign trail for his sharp rhetoric against immigration and foreign trade. Democrats nearly selected a self-described socialist who ran on a populist platform against the influence of big money in politics.

Acces PDF Champion 4

While it is not surprising that Americans would channel their frustrations into votes for contenders who pledge to end business as usual, the truth is that we don't have to pin our hopes for greater participation on any one candidate. All of us have a say—if we effective citizenship.

One of the biggest roadblocks to participation in democracy is the perception that privileged citizens and special interests
command the levers
of power and that everyday Americans
can't fight City Hall.

Acces PDF

Champion 4

That perception is undoubtedly why a 2015 Pew Charitable Trusts survey found that 74 percent of those Americans surveyed believed that most elected officials didn't care what people like them thought. Graham and Hand intend to change that conventional wisdom
